

Policy on Solicitation and Distribution of Materials

Applicable Law: Laws of 1959 – Chapter 399:10 (g) – “The [Gunstock Area] commission shall have power to prescribe and publish rules and regulations governing the use of the area.”

Under this authority, the Gunstock Area Commissioners have adopted the following rules and regulations relative to solicitation and/or the distribution of materials on Gunstock Recreation Area property and to the use of the Gunstock property during special events and private functions:

No individual, group, or business may post, pass or distribute any written materials, including but not necessarily limited to: brochures, flyers, newsletters, papers, advertisements, solicitations, rack cards, decals, bumper stickers, books and/or magazines without the express authorization of the Gunstock Commissioners or their duly authorized agent.

Distribution of any materials of any kind in Gunstock designated parking lots, or within the Gunstock designated camping areas is expressly prohibited without written permission of the Gunstock Area Commission. Under no circumstances may materials be placed on, in or near vehicles parked in said areas.

During any function or event where some or all of the Gunstock facilities have been rented or leased by a third party for a specific purpose, no other group or person may use said facilities during the rental or lease period without the consent of the contracting party, except for “public outdoor recreation” purposes where required by statute.

If any person or group, in the sole judgment of the Gunstock Area Commissioners or their duly authorized agent, is disrupting the use and enjoyment of any other group or individual who has previously contracted for use of the area, they will be required to cease the disruption and leave the premises if so notified.
